What does REACH 3D do?

Fashion is, by definition, a short life-cycle industry. What sells now may not sell a couple of months later.

Fashion supply chain is hugely exploded and spans countries across many continents.

Effective collaboration between team members across design, product development, sampling, production, merchandising, and marketing in geographically distant locations is critical to getting fashion products to customers at the right time.

REACH 3D enables Virtual, Digital Product Development and Visualization, drastically cutting down fashion product development cycle times and saving resources.
